INSTRUCTIONS

Disclosure

The terms of any insurance that we arrange on your behalf are based upon the information provided by you. You must disclose all 'Material Circumstances' to us or your insurers, both at the outset and throughout the period of insurance cover. Material Circumstances are all the items of information that may influence the insurer's decision over cover or the terms of your insurance. In order to identify what must be disclosed, you are required to carry out a reasonable search of your business and its activities.

As part of the search, you should consult with all senior managers. This includes anyone who plays a significant role in the making of decisions regarding your business, regardless of whether or not that individual is a member of your board or is formally in a management role. This might include people such as site managers, risk managers, operational and business leaders. You will need to consider where to draw the line given the management of your particular business.

The most serious consequence of failing to disclose material information could be the invalidation of your cover. In that instance it would mean that a claim will be rejected.

The following must be disclosed:

- Claims and loss history
- Losses or incidents where no claims were made
- Adverse credit history
- Insurance declinature

What might be a 'material circumstance' will vary from business to business but for a company such as your own examples would be sale of the company or any of its subsidiaries, the acquisition of new companies, the raising of further cash by placing or a change of auditor. This is by no means an exhaustive list of examples and if you are in any doubt as to what facts are considered to be material then you should disclose them to us.

Privacy Notice

The following information is required in order to assess your insurance needs, to approach product providers for quotations and the ongoing administration of your policies.

Our Customer Privacy Notice provides details of how we use and share your information as well as your rights and how to exercise them. You can access it at www.thecleargroup.com/privacy-policy or contact us if you would like us to send you a copy.

Where you provide information relating to another person we assume you have a lawful basis for doing so and request that you draw our privacy notice to their attention.
